What's Available in Your State?

Background: Interagency and intra-agency agreements are a required part of how your State addresses the needs of infants and toddlers with disabilities (and their families) receiving early intervention services under Part C. These agencies often receive multiple Federal grants and other fiscal support to provide the services needed by these children and their families. No one agency can do it alone!

Instructions: Listed below you'll find types of grants and funding streams that may be available in your State. If so, they may be a resource for early intervention programs striving to meet the needs of participating children and families. Look down the list on the left. Is this grant or program available in your State? Check the "Investigate?" box on the far right if you want to find out.
